

The book was found

The Land Of Open Graves: Living And Dying On The Migrant Trail (California Series In Public Anthropology)

Synopsis

In his gripping and provocative debut, anthropologist Jason De León sheds light on one of the most pressing political issues of our time—the human consequences of US immigration policy. The Land of Open Graves reveals the suffering and deaths that occur daily in the Sonoran Desert of Arizona as thousands of undocumented migrants attempt to cross the border from Mexico into the United States. Drawing on the four major fields of anthropology, De León uses an innovative combination of ethnography, archaeology, linguistics, and forensic science to produce a scathing critique of “Prevention through Deterrence,” the federal border enforcement policy that encourages migrants to cross in areas characterized by extreme environmental conditions and high risk of death. For two decades, this policy has failed to deter border crossers while successfully turning the rugged terrain of southern Arizona into a killing field. In harrowing detail, De León chronicles the journeys of people who have made dozens of attempts to cross the border and uncovers the stories of the objects and bodies left behind in the desert. The Land of Open Graves will spark debate and controversy.

Book Information

Series: California Series in Public Anthropology (Book 36)

Paperback: 384 pages

Publisher: University of California Press (October 23, 2015)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 0520282752

ISBN-13: 978-0520282759

Product Dimensions: 6 x 0.8 x 9 inches

Shipping Weight: 1.6 pounds (View shipping rates and policies)

Average Customer Review: 4.7 out of 5 stars See all reviews (9 customer reviews)

Best Sellers Rank: #16,013 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #16 in Books > Politics & Social Sciences > Social Sciences > Emigration & Immigration #34 in Books > Politics & Social Sciences > Anthropology > General #37 in Books > Politics & Social Sciences > Social Sciences > Violence in Society

Customer Reviews

Loved the book. Written in a style that grabs the reader and carries her/him through a seemingly endless tragedy. Tremendous past and current information on a dark international immigration web. Sometimes even funny. I highly recommend it.

This is a rare work of scholarship that transcends academic jargon and makes a strong argument about the human consequences of U.S. border policy. It's also a book about the practice of anthropology and how anthropologist's tools tell us something different about how we understand social problems. Whether or not you agree with the author, it makes for a gripping read. Like a great novel, it brought me to tears.

If you have any interest in the stories of people from Mexico, Central American or South America who form our wave of migrants from the south, this is a MUST READ book. Fascinating first person stories and great archaeological context. Highly recommended.

Jason is a former professor of mine, and I was really excited to see that his book had come out. I was not disappointed. It links border policy with its incredibly important humanistic implications. It uses theoretic analysis of bureaucracy alongside some innovative fieldwork to illustrate a truth for people who don't know what's really going on on the border, and in our federal governmental structure. I recommend it to anyone interested in immigration, border issues, or just the general study/intrigue about how seemingly benign power structures perpetuate violence and injustice. Not a happy read, but well well worth it.

This 4-field anthropological approach to border studies is compelling. After reading it I have ended up recommending it to a range of academics as well as my mom's book club and anyone interested in border policy that should hear the difficult and true story of how U.S. Border policy impacts people, bodies, and families.

I cried reading this book. It is amazing and it has a lot of factual information. It is such a good book to read and it helps the reader understand what happens in border towns.

Thought provoking!

Excellent Read !!!

Download to continue reading...

The Land of Open Graves: Living and Dying on the Migrant Trail (California Series in Public Anthropology) Fresh Fruit, Broken Bodies: Migrant Farmworkers in the United States (California

Series in Public Anthropology) Pathologies of Power: Health, Human Rights, and the New War on the Poor (California Series in Public Anthropology) Reimagining Global Health: An Introduction (California Series in Public Anthropology) Righteous Dopefiend (California Series in Public Anthropology) Essentials in Hospice Palliative Care - Second Edition: A basic end-of-life manual explaining how to care for the dying and helps health care workers, family and patients deal with death and dying. Frugal Living: 55 Tips to Save Money! Enjoy Living on a Budget, Become Debt Free, and Have Complete Financial Independence (Frugal Living Books, frugal living for dummies, frugal living made simple) Public Health Law and Ethics: A Reader (California/Milbank Books on Health and the Public) Public Health Law: Power, Duty, Restraint (California/Milbank Books on Health and the Public) Training on the Trail: Practical Solutions for Trail Riding Appalachian Trail Conservancy Appalachian Trail Data Book 2016 Research Methods in Public Administration and Public Management: An Introduction (Routledge Masters in Public Management) Essential Case Studies In Public Health: Putting Public Health into Practice (Essential Public Health) No Graves As Yet: A Novel of World War One (World War One Series) Defiant Braceros: How Migrant Workers Fought for Racial, Sexual, and Political Freedom (The David J. Weber Series in the New Borderlands History) Innovation in Open and Distance Learning: Successful Development of Online and Web-based Learning (Open and Flexible Learning Series) Appropriate: The Houses Of Joseph Esherick (Environmental Design Archives at the University of California, Berkeley Series) (Environmental Design Archives ... University of California, Berkeley Series The Graves: Srebrenica And Vukovar James Robinson Graves: Staking the Boundaries of Baptist Identity (Studies in Baptist Life and Thought) Marking Graves in Tuscaloosa County, Alabama: The Musings of a Teacher

Dmca